

My Circle of Support

Put those who you think are closest to you and who can support you the most in the smallest circle, and work outwards to a bigger group of people who might not be able to support you quite as much, but are still there for you.

